The rolled, twisted and fresh-baked story of the perfect pretzel.

With a name like Wetzel, Rick Wetzel was destined for pretzels. As a boy, he envisioned a world of pretzels that were big and fresh and ready on a moment's notice. But everywhere he looked, he found machine-made pretzels that were too small and didn't have the twisted fun he was looking for. Finally, Wetzel went to his ancestral home of Germany, where pretzel making hadn't changed in 1400 years. He found pretzels that were big and chewy, made from all-natural ingredients. Hand rolled and baked fresh. Finally, Wetzel had his pretzel.

Expect more from your pretzel.

A Wetzel's Pretzel is always served fresh. If they're not being munched on within 30 minutes after baking, they're tossed. For added spice, try our garlic, cheese or cinnamon varieties. Or dip your pretzel in pizza sauce, cheddar cheese or even caramel. It's all great tasting fun on the run, especially when you wash it down with fresh lemonade or frozen Granita.

Pretzel Exotica.

Wetzel's Original

"Exotic Chinese Gourmet' food in a comfortable setting

WOK PLUS is a small, first-class neighborhood restaurant. It bills itself as "Exotic Chinese Gourmet (No M.S.G.)" and that pretty well sums it up except for the ambience.

Wok Plus is just a very comfortable place. The management probably won't be happy with me for mentioning this but my plate had a tiny chip on the rim, a kind of homey touch that I appreciated. It kept things from being too perfect, as did a continual pounding upstairs that I never did figure out. The result of these extremely minor imperfections is to encourage you to take things easy, shed your jacket if you're a man, shed your calorie counting if you're on a diet, and just enjoy an informal Chinese meal that's very well prepared.

Several families had their kids along, and they fitted right in, no fuss at Wok Plus. The tables are far enough apart so there's no sense of intrusiveness. They're decorated with big Chinese ideograms. The dishes are handsome, very plain, very non-fancy. Because we had our two youngest along, age 5 and 9, we let them do the early ordering, egg rolls and pot stickers. Both appetizers turned out to be good but not exceptional, hardy-of-a-worthwhile sample of the excellent dishes that were to follow.

I particularly enjoyed Lake Tung Ting Beef strips of tenderloin seared to seal in its natural flavor and served on a nicely contrasting bed of spinach. The beef was coated with a thick, slightly sweet sauce that brought out both the meat flavor and the tart spinach. The portion was quite generous; with an appetizer and a little steamed rice, it would make a complete dinner at a bargain price.

The difficulty is that the food is too enticing. Unless you happened to have almost no money with you and both your MasterCard and Visa were punched out, you almost surely are going to order more. Treats abound at Wok This.

Try Crispy-fried Ginger Onion Chicken, a mildly hot Szechuan dish (Hot dishes are indicated by a little check mark on the extensive menu.) The chicken is marinated, then steamed and fried to crisp the skin. It has absolutely no oily taste and is very tender. Then it's topped with a ginger onion sauce. Very nice.

Shrimp with Cashew Nuts is a perfectly prepared rendition of the Cantonese classic that you see in restaurants all over town. The difference at Wok Plus is that the shrimp is carefully cleaned, the vegetables crisp and the serving of cashews generous. This is an enjoyable bargain.

One of the best dishes was called Mixed Vegetable Delight which I ordered mainly because I just wanted some vegetables. I was therefore rather surprised at how good they were. The vegetables, the traditional baby corn, broccoli and the like, were lightly cooked and crisp. Wok Plus makes a practice of serving only fresh ingredients and in a vegetable platter like this one, it really pays off.

Wok Plus offers generous special dinners or from $8.50 to $11.50 per person (minimum service for two or more) or a special banquet arranged with the chef beforehand. Two of the dishes mentioned earlier in the review, Lake Tung Ting Beef and Crispy-fried Ginger Onion Chicken, are not on the luncheon menu which is served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Wok Plus offers a free delivery service in the neighborhood (you should order a decent amount of food to make it worth the restaurant's while, and it's not out of place to tip). You can telephone your order for delivery or pick it up yourself. (415) 864-8877 864-0278

This restaurant is named after the Yangtze River, which at more than 3,000 miles is the longest river in China. Beginning in the mountains of Southwest China, it winds through the valleys of Central China and flows out into the East China Sea to Korea and Japan. Legend has it that the Yangtze is home to twelve stone goddesses who guide trade ships in the mist. Good luck is guaranteed to all those who see them and give tribute.

The Heart and Mind
All of the ingredients in our dishes are the freshest available. Our food is prepared with the purest corn oil.

Y= Spicy dishes, prepared mild upon request.

"Dim sum, those small, delectable dumplings (or more accurately, Chinese tea, used to be for imperial stomachs only. A thousand years ago Sung Dynasty Emperors nibbled on such delicacies as minced pheasant, lark tongues, and sweets made from steamed milk and bean paste. With the invasion of the Mongols in the 13th Century, the Emperor and his court moved slowly south, introducing the palace cuisine to every province on the way to Canton."
-The Asian Wall Street Journal

Since its founding in 1958, Yank Sing has taken great pride to ensure that each dish presented on it's ever-radiating Deem Sum carts is befitting stat of the sumptuous delicacies served to the Sung Dynasty Emperors and their Courts.

Deem Sum, literally translated, means "to touch the heart". Yank Sing has touched the hearts of many people in the Bay Area and beyond. Its cuisine has received numerous local, and international awards and reviews.

*"to tempt your palate...
 to touch your heart"*

Deem sum (or dim sum) is the generic name for hundreds of bite-sized delicacies first created for the Imperial Court of the Sung Dynasty nearly 1,000 years ago. The idea behind deem sum was to harmonize flavors so that dozens of tastes could be enjoyed at the same meal. As the Emperor fled from the Mongols, the concept was spread to each Chinese province on the way to Canton. By 1900, Canton was known as the best place in China to have deem sum, which literally means "to touch the heart".

Yank Sing was founded in 1958. The name "Yank Sing" means "City of the Ram" and is a synonym for Guangzhou, the capital of the Canton Province in China.

How Deem Sum Works

We have over 100 varieties of deem sum (with some 60 varieties served daily), but no formal menu. Servers go through the restaurant with carts. To order, simply ask the food servers to give you whatever you see on the cart that you like. You can sample shrimp, scallop, duck, chicken, beef, pork and vegetable dishes in one sitting. If you want a specific item, but do not see it on the carts, please ask a food server for help.

Each time you select an item from the cart, the server will stamp your guest check. At the conclusion of your meal, the waiter will total up your bill by adding up the stamps.

Yank Sing

Catering

*"To touch your heart,
to tempt your palate. . ."*

Make certain that your guests remember your next luncheon, dinner or cocktail party long after the last morsel of food is eaten...

Treat them to a royal feast of Chinese delicacies prepared by Yank Sing's chefs.

Yank Sing's chefs will tantalize your palate and those of your guests using culinary techniques developed in the palaces of the Sung dynasty ten centuries ago. Lovingly, they transform fresh fish, fowl, beef, pork, vegetables, exotic spices, and rice into bite-sized delectables called "deem sum" (dim sum).

Deem sum, literally translated, means "to touch the heart" – and Yank Sing has touched the hearts of many people in the Bay Area. Its cuisine has received numerous awards and critical reviews, including recognition as the "Best Dim Sum in the Bay Area" by Focus magazine readers on four consecutive occasions.

At Your Location

For exceptional food to compliment the location of your choice, call us to arrange full-service catering.

Our experienced, service-oriented staff will help you or your event coordinator select a menu to suit your tastes – and your budget.

Be assured you'll have many choices. Yank Sing offers 60 types of distinctive and delicious deem sum, from tasty scallop dumplings and fluffy barbecued pork buns to melt-in-your-mouth prawns dipped in a light tempura-like batter. You can also choose Chinese finger foods such as roast pork and soy chicken.

We will deliver, set up and provide table or buffet service for a variety of events including banquets, receptions, luncheons, picnics, office parties, and weddings.

At Our Location

For a modern and elegant atmosphere – and unique cuisine – call Yank Sing Catering to arrange a private party at Yank Sing's restaurant facilities. Located at 427 Battery Street near Embarcadero Center, the Yank Sing Restaurant has full bar service and a well-trained and attentive staff.

Catering can arrange group luncheons and cocktail and dinner parties. One of our staff will be happy to give you a tour of the facilities and review our catering menus with you.

In addition to deem sum, our dinner menus can include banquet-style entrees such as Peking Duck, Shark's Fin Soup, Sesame Chicken Salad, and Steamed Rock Cod.

Takeout

For your more casual business meetings and luncheons, call our office to arrange take-out deem sum service.

Large orders can be delivered to locations within the neighborhood.

And if you need help setting up, ask about our "Special Delivery" service. Our catering staff can deliver your take-out order and set up the food service so that you and your guests can serve yourselves.

And as an added convenience – you can send your deem sum take-out orders to our office via facsimile. Ask our catering staff about our Fax service!

For palate-pleasing deem sum and other Chinese delicacies to make your next occasion memorable, call Yank Sing Catering:
